Rafiki Understands What It Takes to Be Alberta's Top IT Services Company in The Oil & Gas Industry

We have the ability to:

- Use online capabilities and secure cloud solutions to transmit information in real time from the field to headquarters, and vice versa.
- Transmit and receive well-log and decline-curve data to ensure your operation's progress as they should.
- Securely store, transmit, process, and manage mass amounts of sensor data and trend histories using innovative, secure visualization, modeling, and analytics that improve reservoir management.
- Share information via the Cloud to ensure your staff makes efficient decisions.
- Employ cyber-risk measures that protect your IT assets from unauthorized individuals.
- Remotely monitor your IT infrastructure solutions to thwart cyber-attacks and ensure reliability.
- Develop and implement a customized security plan that protects your IT operations.
- Provide advice and consulting services so you can use technology to your competitive advantage, including mobile solutions, cloud computing, and data management services.
- Provide layers of security protection to guard your intellectual property and confidential data.
- Through our partners, we can integrate asset tracking with IOT
- Offer IT compliance support for changing regulations.

It's important for your oil and gas business to outsource your information technology so you know you're using software and hardware adeptly and to its fullest potential. The benefits of increased productivity are massive. That makes it well worth outsourcing IT to a provider who understands the software and technology you use every day.

Partner with Rafiki Technologies today to devise a high-impact IT digitization strategy unique to your business and have peace of mind knowing that your IT assets are well protected.
